Anne 6 is a dairy character bull from a great productive cow family. The grand dam of Anne 6, Annie 105, is described by the breeder as one of the best brood cows. All of her daughters produce tremendously well and she has a son of Bernard 26, from whom the first daughters exceed expected production and have a very good conformation.

The dam of Anne 6, Annie 116, knows how to achieve extremely high production levels time and time again and is more than 25% above the herd average of the barn. In short, a very milk rich cow family who manage to keep it up. Though the grand dam is sadly deceased due to a fault in the automatic milking equipment.

The sire Siebren is a natural bull for breeding, whose daughters are milked with great satisfaction. Siebren himself has been sold to England, where he will naturally continue to be a fine bull for breeding. It is expected that calves will not be too heavy given the gestation period of Anne 6. The hope is that the family's predisposition for production is passed on, one-on-one, to the daughters of Anne 6.
