Bunlahy John G is an Angus breeding bull from Ireland, who is making quite a name for himself there. John G is currently the most consistently breeding Angus bull in Ireland. His progeny never fail to impress at the classifications. In 2017, one of his descendants won the 'Aldi All Ireland Angus Bull Calf Championship' and the female champion at the Irish Angus Elite Sale was also a descendant of John G.

John G transmits good breed traits to his progeny, excellent growth and skeletal development. The gestation period of his daughters is clearly shorter than average. John G is a bull that contributes great breed traits and quality and is therefore a hugely popular choice in Ireland.
