Dalriada Red Perfection is well built and moves easily. He has strong legs and claws and good locomotion. He was bred by the highly regarded cattle stud for Irish Angus: Dalriada.

His pedigree is known for calving ease and his first calves are also very easily born. His Irish index for calving ease is clearly better than the breed average of Angus bulls. In Ireland, he is used on Angus heifers and for beef on dairy use. The results are very good and the calves show great vitality. The carcass quality of his calves is also higher than the breed average. Red Perfection offers a unique combination of light birth weights and typical breed traits. You can use this bull with confidence for light birth weights.
