Elancher from Simonshoek is a very interesting beef on dairy bull, who promises a lot in terms of his pedigree. It quickly becomes evident that, with Remco Zandeind as his sire and Jaap van Phaenocryst as his dams sire, this bull was specially bred for calving ease and still maintaining muscling. Remco, as well as Jaap, score well above average for both calving ease and for muscling in comparison to other beef on dairy bulls.

Elancher can easily be used, considering how busy the breeder has been with breeding for easy calving within the BWB breed over the years. This bull is well-developed and shows good muscling. This bull also possess a finer bone structure.

Elancher is a bull who has very good papers and is backed by a good cow family making him to be a good bull for crossbreeding with dairy cows. Therefore, this bull will certainly get 4.5 stars out of 5 for calving ease.
