Panic PP is a new bull from the Triple-Hil Sires programme. This homozygous polled bull shows strength, plenty of width, has great locomotion and is a red factor carrier. His descends from Macnut PP x Ball of Wax PP x Delect P-Red. As these names offer a different bloodline for the polled segment, this makes a welcome addition to the range. Panic's aAa code of 534162 is also quite rare among the polled bulls available at present, and he is A2A2.

There are two key words used by Panic PP's breeder to sum up this bull's cow family. The first word is substance - their capacity. The cows in this family all exhibit the substance and ruggedness that we all like to see. A good cow preferably combines these traits with femininity and dairyness. They are not rugged and coarse, but rugged and feminine. The second key word is fertility! Generations of cows that calve within a year and also produce very well. The third dam of this bull is still alive, has calved eight times and is not 10 yet. His breeder says he does not expect Panic to sire show winners, but he will produce strong cows with substance and fertility!
