Jouke (Jamie x VJ Link x Lirsk x DJ Middel) is a Dutch bred Jersey bull with a Danish maternal line and a North American sire. The cow family has excellent components: the last four generations had above, or well above, 4% protein. With the 4th dam, fat was 5.65% increasing afterwards to 6.33% produced by Jouke's dam. His grand dam was imported as a third calver from Denmark by Jouke's breeder in Hemelum, Wytze Meye Wink. And it was an outstanding purchase: Anouk produced 88241 kg of milk with 5.99% fat and 4.52% protein in nine lactations. Average LV 115 (first three lists in Denmark).

Anouk 2 is a super dairy cow with an average LV of 112 partly thanks to the very high component percentages. She produces milk with ease and combines this with very good fertility and excellent udder health. In her last lactation the average SCC was 11. Her sire VJ Link is a true longevity specialist, who scores 113 in the NVO survival scores. And for fourth calvers, he even tops the entire list. Some 69% of Link daughters are still active, compared with an average of 39% across all the bulls.

Jouke's sire is Jamie (Matt x Dynamic x Paramount). Jamie is a correct, all-round bull, whose skeletal structure shows a little more openness. This is extremely welcome, especially with Danish bloodlines....
