Breed

Ramorat is a Pinzgauer bull, who hails from Austria, the original birth place of the Pinzgauers. The Pinzgauers are by nature a dual-purpose breed, with the tendency to be bred for meat. The Pinzgauer breed is sturdy and can easily withstand wind and weather conditions outside. It is a rustic breed, which does not demand or require any extra care.

Ramorate is a milk type Pinzgauer, whose calves are born easily. Besides that, the Pinzgauers have a very distinctive marking which are immediately recognisable.

The maternal calving process is, for Austrian levels, very good with 111. The bull is especially prized for its milk characteristics, which at 113 are good and whose total index even lies around 129. Making him one of the better Pinzgauer bulls for breeding.
