Senco van Maris is a bull who passes on short gestation and a superior pedigree. With Warrior de Fontena as his sire, and Adajio de Bray siring his dam, the pedigree is noted for muscularity. Senco was reserve champion at a national classification in 2017 and is also well-muscled. K.I. SAMEN acquired Senco for his maternal ease of calving, but calves that offer higher than average qualities.

Senco was lightweight at birth himself and transmits short gestation times. With Eltin van Maris, K.I. SAMEN has a proven bull from the Maris stud, who have been highly successful with their breeding goals and strategy for many years. With such a fine line behind him Senco will give calves with a touch more luxury than the average beef on dairy bull, but they will also show more muscularity.

Senco merits 2.5 out of 5 stars.
